

boss only. He is not permitted to nail a board. This effectively puts the little contractor out of business.

"It will make the Carpenter Contractors' ass'n a closed select circle, for few carpenters have money enough to go into contracting on a scale big enough to justify their doing nothing but bossing."

Metz friends ridicule the attack upon the agreement and say it is unjustified. They say the agreement signed July 10 is nearly identical to the one under which the carpenters worked in the past. It contains no impairment of union rights or privileges, they say.

Two may be able to live as cheap as one—but they haven't succeeded as yet.
